History and Purpose of the RCTS Legacy and Reunion Scholarship: The RCTS Legacy and Reunion Scholarship is designed to support the educational and career aspirations of Randolph County, Alabama students whose family members attended or graduated from RCTS. All funds are allocated annually in scholarships to students with no administrative or other cost. The scholarship is part of a larger effort by RCTS alumni and supporters to preserve and institutionalize the rich RCTS tradition and ensure that its rich legacy is not lost.

RCTS was a Rosenwald descendant School that served the educational needs of African Americans for 51 years (1919-1970) before public schools in Randolph County were desegregated. Since 2005, RCTS scholarships have been awarded to 88 graduating students from Randolph County's four high schools (Handley H.S., Woodland H.S, Wadley H.S., and the Randolph County HS). Additional information about RCTS and the scholarship is available at www.rctsfoundation.org and our Facebook Group site (RCTS Legacy and Reunion).

RCTS Foundation scholarship recipients have benefits from our support and they are excellent representatives of the goals of the scholarship. Among the 88 recipients to date are: Jessica Trammell, Raven McFarlin, Robert and Marian Royston, Terry O'Bryan Vines, Dre Watkins, Quae Drake, Xavier Dozier, Shakira Owensby, Keshon Lovette, Tiara Williams, Kieauna Strickland, Nia Green, T'Coriyan Winston, Joshua Smith, Kaliyah Bell, Ja'Meria Johnson, Asia Burton, and Demarcus Joiner.
